With F.M.L.

Radio KMIL is generous with public service efforts.

And in conversation with staff announcer Charles McGregor the other day, he noted a country western artist in Nashville whose desire it was to play in the Nashville Symphony.

This dramatizes how people in music, like in life, can find similarities in apparent differences.

There are a lot of things I don't know. And learning that a rising country-western star would like to play in Nashville Symphony is one.

I was fortunate enough to grow up in an era and area where all kinds of music intermingled: what used to be called hillbilly music, religious music, symphonic and concert band, vocal music, popular music even some experience, but brief in a "talking chorus", one rendition of which was a narrative called "Tarantella."

By now, people might be curious about 113's interest in music and all the effort toward a symphony's playing in Milam County.

Sort of like Martin, "they" stood me up in church about the age of 5 and started me singing hymns. This led to the usual torment here and there of being a "boy soprano", some vocal lessons and some quartet, solo and choral work in high school, which led to four years and some solo work with a group called the University Singers at the UofMo. The "boy soprano" had settled for tenor.

One of the hardest things I ever did was, sing at the funeral of a grandmother in a small frame church in a small south Missouri town. Looking on were people practically all her age while a lady played an old piano and I sang several verses of the deceased's favorite hymn, "The Old Rugged Cross."

That same year, the University Singers joined with the St. Louis

Muny Opera Chorus in St. Louis to sing a Russian cantata, "Alexander Nevsky", by Prokofiev, the same composer who wrote "Peter and the Wolf." We sang at Kiel Auditorium with the St. Louis Symphony under the baton of then conductor Vladimir Golschmann. Metropolitan mezzo-soprano Jennie Tourel sang the solo work.

Such was the diversity just one year of music for 113. And it has obviously influenced my view of music, that there is good in all kinds, and that great music properly heard can be as interesting, if not as popular as country western, rock 'n roll or what have you.

It is the same, as far as I can see, about people. And the universal qualities of great music, regardless of idiom or kind, are understood when they are heard.

Now a grown man is supposed to lay these things aside and choose a niche, better than might be termed rut, and go with it. I have concluded trying to understand things as they occur one at a time is more difficult, but a step toward maturity, which probably means knowing oneself.

Beyond all the promotion, these are some of the things that foster one desire for great music to be given audience in Milam County, live, dynamic and dramatic.

I thank Charles McGregor and KMIL for allowing audience to a music buff's aspiration for great music in this area. And for Charles' acknowledging that country-western artists can cross over to symphonies while the Dallas Symphony can cross over to "Dallasound" or "pops" music.

And we join in inviting you again to hear what all this talk and type are about either as area students 1:30 p.m. next Tuesday or as students or adults 7:30 p.m. next Tuesday at Cameron National Guard Armory.

The harmonies of a major orchestra are more convincing than I.

City Permits Top $1 Million

New Buildings Head List, Homes Second

Cameron saw a real building boom in 1972, with building permits going over the one million dollar mark. Permits for new construction, new homes, and repairs and enlargements totaled $1,247,199 for the year.

New construction of business buildings led the permits issued, with a total of $569,000 for 1972. This includes a new clinic near St. Edward Hospital, a new building in the Industrial Park for Volker Corp., and a $62,000 addition to Royal Seating Corp. in the Industrial Park. Also issued was a permit for a new restaurant.

A total of $195,000 in new construction permits was issued during the last three months of the year.

New home construction was next, with a total of $426,099 for the year. Of this total, some $173,449 was issued during the last three months of the year for eleven new homes.

Remodeling, enlargement and repairs ran up a total of $137,600, including some $35,000 for the First Baptist Church repairs and improvements.

Watershed Election

The annual directors election for the Elm Creek Watershed Authority has been postponed to February 6, it was announced this week. The election will be held at the Red Ranger Store.

School Board To Meet

The Cameron school board will meet at 7 p.m. Thursday (tonight) in the superintendent's office at Ben Milam School.

FAMILY AFFAIR - That's what the Milam County Junior Livestock Show is to the Frankie Joe Ehler family, with three youngsters all entering animals in this year's show. Shown with the Brown Swiss heifer entered by David, center, are Rosemary and Charles. The weather was so cold when this photo was taken even the cow was shivering, but she was comforted by a blanket especially made for her.

Area Schools Sending Students To Concert

Rockdale, Rogers, Buckholts and Cameron students and bandmen are confirmed among other area schools sending students to the student performance of Dallas Symphony next Tuesday at Cameron National Guard Armory.

And ticket sales continue at Cameron Chamber of Commerce, Rockdale State Bank in Rockdale and Cultural Activities Center in Temple for the evening performance of the Symphony.

Student tickets are $1 each, available only at area schools for student groups such as bands. Afternoon performance by the orchestra includes works by Mendelssohn, Berlioz, Tchaikovsky, Rimsky-Korsakov, Leonard Bernstein and Leroy Anderson.

The 7:30 p.m. evening performance will include works by Strauss, Berlioz, Mendelssohn and Stravinsky. Members of Yoe High School Honor Society will usher both at the evening performance and the student program.

Symphony patron donations have been received from Cameron History Club and Cameron Delphian Club, starting patron support for symphony expenses during the day.

The Cameron Chamber and Temple Cultural Activities Center and Central Texas Symphony Assoc. are co-sponsors of the evening presentation, under the baton of Anshel Brusilow, DSO conductor.

Chamber committeemen working are: Programs, John B. Henderson, Jr., and Robert Ellett; audience set-up, L. W. Stroup and Jim Bledsoe; noon symphony lunch, Mrs. Perry Holder and Miss Mildred Thornton; general arrangements, Rev. Alvis Coleman and Jim Woodum; symphony set-up, Dana Kestenbaum; finance, Don G. Humble and William Kelm.

Plans include elevating the symphony for the Tuesday performances for better visibility.

The afternoon performance is at 1:30 p.m. so that students riding buses will have ample time to return to their schools.

Reserved seat tickets are $3 each for the evening performance. The program will be about an hour and a half.

Kenneth Meine, Dallas Symphony Assoc. general manager, said the symphony would set aside dates for March, 1974, for a third performance in Cameron if the community wanted it.

Folk Fete Inc Views Locations For Annual Fete

Directors of Folk Fete Inc. meeting Monday night discussed possible new locations to hold the 1973 Folk Fete, since parking space is a big problem at the City Park.

Other possible locations discussed include the National Guard Armory and Cameron Airpark. However, no decision was made to alter the location of the fete.

Another item up for discussion was sponsoring of a float to attend out-of-town parades, and for advertising purposes.

Directors also decided to have a drive for additional funds, however, present members will not be asked to contribute again, according to Charles Kunz, president of Folk Fete, Inc.

Permanent committees appointed include: Publicity - Mrs. Perry Holder, Jack Tumlinson. Finance - L. W. Stroup and William Kelm. Program and entertainment - Henry Litzman, Gene Smitherman and Mrs. Edward Demerson.

Food and drink - Charles Hundle, Mrs. Frank Mikulec, and Mrs. Denison Rubac. Culture - Frank Luecke, Mrs. Alma Bush, and Mrs. Martha Kahler. Security - J. K. Wilkerson and a representative of the city council.

148 ENTRIES COUNTED IN STOCK SHOW

One hundred and forty-eight entries have been counted for this year's Milam County Junior Livestock Show set for Saturday at the Cameron Compress building.

The entries are from 4-H Clubs and FFA members from throughout Milam County.

Animals must be in their places by 9 a.m. and judging will start at 10, according to show officials.

There are eight classes for animals in the show - market hogs, unbreed gilts, bred gilts, steers, junior breeding beef females, dairy females, fat lambs, and breeding ewes.

Entries include 12 breeding gilts, 30 market hogs, 31 steers, 9 fat lambs, 3 breeding ewes, 45 beef heifers, and 18 dairy animals.

Tickets are being sold at $1 each on a calf and a hog by members of the 4-H Clubs and FFA. Proceeds from the tickets finance the annual show. The calf was donated by the Cameron Livestock Auction and the hog donated by Cameron Swine Producers Inc.

Trophies will be presented to the Grand Champion in each division, with rosettes going to Reserve Champion. All other entries will be classified according to their quality into blue, red and white ribbons.

The show is open to the public and a concession stand will be open for refreshments during the show, which will end in the late afternoon.

Weather Notes

Sub-freezing temperatures in the Central Texas area were still in effect Wednesday morning at press-time, when motorists drove the sleet-covered streets carefully. The weather man was calling for more freezing rain, sleet and snow in the area for Wednesday and Thursday.

The weather forced the closing of Milam schools and called off meetings, classes, and prompted some bosses to tell their employees to stay home.

City Plans To Enforce Fireworks Ordinance

The city plans to enforce a fireworks ordinance, and plans to amend the present ordinance to cover the sale of fireworks within the city limits.

At Tuesday's council meeting, City Atty. Ed Magre told the mayor and councilmen that the city already had an ordinance prohibiting the use of fireworks within the city limits. Both mayor and councilmen reported that they had numerous complaints about fireworks during the past holiday season.

In other business, council heard a report on urban renewal progress from A. W. McCullin, who showed sketches of the mall area to the council.

The mayor reported that the city has forms ready to mail to property owners about delapidated and falling down buildings, to allow the city to go in and clean them up. The council also:

Awarded gasoline and diesel bid to Arco.

Heard about the possibility of repainting street signs, and replacing the ones downtown.

Authorized the city secretary to advertise for bids for 20 new fire-plugs to replace small ones in the city with 6 inch models.

Authorized Water Supt. Hefft to buy a sewer lift pump.

Heard Mayor Gene Blake recommend the purchase of a truck cab and chassis for the fire department, for installing a tank and making a truck to fight rural grass fires.

Heard Fire Chief Monroe Bruedigan report that the volunteer fire department needs more firemen, and said the department is open to men who want to join the volunteers.

Discussed getting curb and gutter forms for the city's use on street work.

Also appearing before the council was Ray Thompson, who sought approval for a plan to open a mobile home park in the north part of Cameron. The zoning committee and code inspector will check the plan and make recommendations at the next meeting.

The mayor reported that the city is ordering police equipment totaling $1,184 which will be paid for on a participation basis by the Criminal Justice Council. The equipment is mostly for riot control and criminal investigation.

LS Gas Cuts Supply To Alcoa In Two Stages

Lone Star Gas Co. cut the natural gas supply to Alcoa's Rockdale Works in two stages as cold weather hit Central Texas early this week, but the gas supply to other industries in Milam County was not affected.

Alcoa began a switch to stockpiled propane gas at about 7:30 a.m. Tuesday. Officials for Alcoa said the cut-off of gas had affected normal operations of 4 of the plants major facilities: the carbon plant, ingot plant, atomized powder plant and the redraw rod plant.

Hal Reagan, spokesman for Alcoa in Rockdale, emphasized that all potlines were in operation, but it was uncertain at presstime whether the gas shortage would curtail power bought from Texas Power and Light if the cold weather continues. Two potlines were shut down in December because of a power curtailment caused by gas shortage.

Reagan said Alcoa generates about 60 percent of its own power, but depends on Texas Power and Light Co. for 40 percent of their power needs.

He said operation of plants switched to propane gas could still be affected if the natural gas cut-off is extended because the propane supply is limited.

Reagan said they were notified by Lone Star Gas of a 75 percent curtailment of fuel on Monday afternoon and the 100 percent cut-off Tuesday morning.

'72 Was Year Of Detente For Much Of World

By Edwin Rosenthal

LONDON

Over much of the world, 1972 was the year of detente.

The new Peking-Washington understanding was followed by new ties between the two Asian powers, China and Japan. The loser in both these exchanges was Nationalist China on Taiwan, which saw itself increasingly pushed into isolation.

In the same Asian region, war-divided Korea made such progress in talks between the Red Cross organizations of both halves of the country that North and South Korea were able to pledge themselves to work towards peaceful reunification.

In Europe, A "Good Neighbor" pact signed between West and East Germany on Dec. 21 opened the way for both governments to become members at last of the United Nations. The pact crowned the efforts of West German Chancellor Willy Brandt to bring about reconciliation with the communist East.

The noted exception to these very positive moves towards "Peace on Earth" was war-battered Vietnam.

Hopes were raised during protracted secret peace talks between Henry Kissinger, Nixon's personal envoy

and the North Vietnamese and South Vietnamese authorities that peace was just around the corner.

These hopes were dashed when the negotiations collapsed in December. The administration followed up by launching some of the greatest bombing attacks of the war over North Vietnam.

There were howls of protest in the United States and around the world over this development in the light of Nixon's promise that the war would end before or soon after he was re-elected for a second four year term as president. He won the vote in 49 of the 50 states in November, a record for any U. S. president.

But while nations around the world were signing friendship pacts, apart from the cancer of Vietnam, at man-in-the-street level there appeared to be a definite swing towards violence.

The simmering Middle East, while avoiding outright confrontation between Israel and its hostile Arab neighbors, produced two of the most shocking tragedies.

In May, three Japanese fanatics linked with a Palestine guerrilla organization opened fire on travelers at Israel's Lydda Airport, killing 26 and injuring more than 70. Two of the attackers died and the third was jailed for life.

In September, the athletic zest of the Munich Olympic Games turned to horror when agents of the "Black September" Arab Guerrilla organization massacred 11 Israeli sportsmen whom they had taken hostage. One West German policeman was also killed in the shoot-out, in which five Arabs died.

The three Arab survivors were later rescued from captivity by colleagues who took over a Lufthansa airliner at gunpoint and demanded their freedom in exchange for the lives of the passengers and crew.

"Skyjackings" have now become a major menace for airlines whether for political motives or merely for financial gain. International organizations and governments made little progress towards concerted action to curb air piracy.

In the western world particularly, police force after police force recorded increases in the figures for such urban "diseases" as murder, kidnap, and mugging.

By the year end, there were hopes of a meeting in June 1973 at foreign ministers level to prepare the ground for the Soviet-proposed European Security Conference, at which the United States and Canada would be represented.

Egyptians Criticize Parliament

By Granville Watts
CAIRO

The Egyptian public has learned with astonishment that some of its legislators have been getting up in parliament and launching into unprecedented criticism of the government.

The Peoples Assembly, as parliament is called, has tended to be a mere rubber-stamp institution since the ousting of the Egyptian monarchy in 1952 and under the regime of the late President Abdel Gamal Nasser.

It is still not clear just how happy President Anwar Sadat is with the new loud voice of legislators.

Some political observers suggest that the new tide of criticism may even have been encouraged by Sadat to act as a safety valve for a society frustrated by long years of middle east stalemate.

These observers also note that the criticism has tended to focus on Prime Minister Aziz Sidky as head of the government rather than on Sadat, who has kept in the background recently.

Whatever the reason behind the new outspokenness in parliament, it has been a welcome innovation in the Egyptian capital where many people tend to treat all parliamentary and press announcements with an ingrained cynicism.

Political observers noted that Cairo's newspapers showed a cautious reaction to the new outspokenness in parliament.

Reform Measures Due Introduction In House

Randall Wood, legislative advocate for Common Cause of Texas, announced today that five reform measures to be introduced in the upcoming session of the Texas legislature will be supported by the state citizen's lobby.

"The Texas membership of Common Cause has placed as its first priority the passage of legislation to open up the operations of state government to the people. We can now announce the legislation which will receive our support will be introduced in the House of Representatives," Wood said.

Price Daniel Jr., who apparently will be the next Speaker of the House of Representatives, has announced that he will personally push for passage of all five pieces of legislation.

"Many legislators in both the House of Representatives and the State Senate were elected on reform platforms. The passage of these five bills would indicate that the promises made during the campaign to clean up the operation of state government were real."

The bill to provide a tough ethics code will be sponsored by Representative Jim Nugent of Kerrville. Representatives - elect Larry Bales of Austin, and Ben Reyes of Houston.

Lobby regulation and control bills will be sponsored by Rep. John Bigham of Temple. Representatives - elect Arthur Temple of Diboll, and George Preston of Paris.

The bill to provide for full disclosure of campaign contributions and expenditures will be sponsored by Rep. Ben Bynum of Amarillo and Representative-elect Chris Miller of Fort Worth.

The bill to require open meetings of public bodies will be sponsored by Rep. Carl Parker of Beaumont and Representative - elect Gene Green of Houston.

Legislation to provide for public access to information will be sponsored by Rep. Lane Denton of Waco. Representatives - elect Hawkins Menefee of Houston, and Camm Lary of Burnet.

Passage of this legislation advocated by Common Cause will lay the groundwork for other reforms. It is the belief of Common Cause membership that meaningful improvements in state legislatures cannot be achieved without reforms that open up the legislative process, the activities of public officials, and the operation of the entire system of state government to public scrutiny.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

Everybody laughs, if he's able, about how hard it is to get a plumber these days, or a T.V. repairman, washing machine repairman, etc., and a lot of people say, "What's gone wrong with this country? Why can't it make machines that don't break down so fast, and why can't we train enough repairmen to go around, at the minimum wage of course?"

It's a good question but if you're looking to me for the answer you've come to the wrong place, and furthermore I can't tell you where to look.

But I can tell you where not to look. According to an article I read last night in a newspaper which had been used as packing to protect a box of broken cups I got through the mail for Christmas, the problem is even worse in Russia.

In one city alone, the article reported, there are 11,000 refrigerator owners on waiting lists for repairs, and how bad that is can be realized when you remember that only about one family in a thousand even has a refrigerator, whether it's working or not.

"I called a mechanic," one Russian owner complained, "and when he finally got here two weeks later he checked the refrigerator, found out what was wrong, and never appeared again."

What this points out is that if you want to escape human nature you've got a lot of traveling to do and no chance of arriving.

In this connection, I'd like to report that I found a bunch of typographical errors in my letter to The Herald a few weeks ago but I do not intend to take my refrigerator and move to Russia.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

LONDON
Over much of the world, 1972 was the year of detente.

The new Peking-Washington understanding was followed by new ties between the two Asian powers, China and Japan. The loser in both these exchanges was Nationalist China on Taiwan, which saw itself increasingly pushed into isolation.

In the same Asian region, war-divided Korea made such progress in talks between the Red Cross organizations of both halves of the country that North and South Korea were able to pledge themselves to work towards peaceful reunification.

In Europe, A "Good Neighbor" pact signed between West and East Germany on Dec. 21 opened the way for both governments to become members at last of the United Nations. The pact crowned the efforts of West German Chancellor Willy Brandt to bring about reconciliation with the communist East.

The noted exception to these very positive moves towards "Peace on Earth" was war-battered Vietnam.

Hopes were raised during protracted secret peace talks between Henry Kissinger, Nixon's personal envoy

and the North Vietnamese and South Vietnamese authorities that peace was just around the corner.

These hopes were dashed when the negotiations collapsed in December. The administration followed up by launching some of the greatest bombing attacks of the war over North Vietnam.

There were howls of protest in the United States and around the world over this development in the light of Nixon's promise that the war would end before or soon after he was re-elected for a second four year term as president. He won the vote in 49 of the 50 states in November, a record for any U. S. president.

But while nations around the world were signing friendship pacts, apart from the cancer of Vietnam, at man-in-the-street level there appeared to be a definite swing towards violence.

The simmering Middle East, while avoiding outright confrontation between Israel and its hostile Arab neighbors, produced two of the most shocking tragedies.

In May, three Japanese fanatics linked with a Palestine guerrilla organization opened fire on travelers at Israel's Lydda Airport, killing 26 and injuring more than 70. Two of the attackers died and the third was jailed for life.

In September, the athletic zest of the Munich Olympic Games turned to horror when agents of the "Black September" Arab Guerrilla organization massacred 11 Israeli sportsmen whom they had taken hostage. One West German policeman was also killed in the shoot-out, in which five Arabs died.

The three Arab survivors were later rescued from captivity by colleagues who took over a Lufthansa airliner at gunpoint and demanded their freedom in exchange for the lives of the passengers and crew.

"Skyjackings" have now become a major menace for airlines whether for political motives or merely for financial gain. International organizations and governments made little progress towards concerted action to curb air piracy.

In the western world particularly, police force after police force recorded increases in the figures for such urban "diseases" as murder, kidnap, and mugging.

By the year end, there were hopes of a meeting in June 1973 at foreign ministers level to prepare the ground for the Soviet-proposed European Security Conference, at which the United States and Canada would be represented.

Reform Measures Due Introduction In House

Randall Wood, legislative advocate for Common Cause of Texas, announced today that five reform measures to be introduced in the upcoming session of the Texas legislature will be supported by the state citizen's lobby.

"The Texas membership of Common Cause has placed as its first priority the passage of legislation to open up the operations of state government to the people. We can now announce the legislation which will receive our support will be introduced in the House of Representatives," Wood said.

Price Daniel Jr., who apparently will be the next Speaker of the House of Representatives, has announced that he will personally push for passage of all five pieces of legislation.

"Many legislators in both the House of Representatives and the State Senate were elected on reform platforms. The passage of these five bills would indicate that the promises made during the campaign to clean up the operation of state government were real."

The bill to provide a tough ethics code will be sponsored by Representative Jim Nugent of Kerrville. Representatives - elect Larry Bales of Austin, and Ben Reyes of Houston.

Lobby regulation and control bills will be sponsored by Rep. John Bigham of Temple. Representatives - elect Arthur Temple of Diboll, and George Preston of Paris.

The bill to provide for full disclosure of campaign contributions and expenditures will be sponsored by Rep. Ben Bynum of Amarillo and Representative-elect Chris Miller of Fort Worth.

The bill to reare open meetings of public bodies will be sponsored by Rep. Carl Parker of Beaumont and Representative - elect Gene Green of Houston.

Legislation to provide for public access to information will be sponsored by Rep. Lane Denton of Waco. Representatives - elect Hawkins Menefee of Houston, and Camm Lary of Burnet.

Passage of this legislation advocated by Common Cause will lay the groundwork for other reforms. It is the belief of Common Cause membership that meaningful improvements in state legislatures cannot be achieved without reforms that open up the legislative process, the activities of public officials, and the operation of the entire system of state government to public scrutiny.

Egyptians Criticize Parliament

By Granville Watts
CAIRO

The Egyptian public has learned with astonishment that some of its legislators have been getting up in parliament and launching into unprecedented criticism of the government.

The Peoples Assembly, as parliament is called, has tended to be a mere rubber-stamp institution since the ousting of the Egyptian monarchy in 1952 and under the regime of the late President Abdel Gamal Nasser.

It is still not clear just how happy President Anwar Sadat is with the new loud voice of legislators.

Some political observers suggest that the new tide of criticism may even have been encouraged by Sadat to act as a safety valve for a society frustrated by long years of middle east stalemate.

These observers also note that the criticism has tended to focus on Prime Minister Aziz Sidky as head of the government rather than on Sadat, who has kept in the background recently.

Whatever the reason behind the new outspokenness in parliament, it has been a welcome innovation in the Egyptian capital where many people tend to treat all parliamentary and press announcements with an ingrained cynicism.

Political observers noted that Cairo's newspapers showed a cautious reaction to the new outspokenness in parliament.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:
Everybody laughs, if he's able, about how hard it is to get a plumber these days, or a T.V. repairman, washing machine repairman, etc., and a lot of people say, "What's gone wrong with this country? Why can't it make machines that don't break down so fast, and why can't we train enough repairmen to go around, at the minimum wage of course?" It's a good question but if you're looking to me for the answer you've come to the wrong place, and furthermore I can't tell you where to look.

But I can tell you where not to look. According to an article I read last night in a newspaper which had been used as packing to protect a box of broken cups I got through the mail for Christmas, the problem is even worse in Russia.

ticle reported, there are 11,000 refrigerator owners on waiting lists for repairs, and how bad that is can be realized when you remember that only about one family in a thousand even has a refrigerator, whether it's working or not.

"I called a mechanic," one Russian owner complained, "and when he finally got here two weeks later he checked the refrigerator, found out what was wrong, and never appeared again."

What this points out is that if you want to escape human nature you've got a lot of traveling to do and no chance of arriving.

In this connection, I'd like to report that I found a bunch of typographical errors in my letter to The Herald a few weeks ago but I do not intend to take my refrigerator and move to Russia.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

FB Exec Comments On REAP Cut

WACO

Texas Farm Bureau President J. T. (Red) Woodson said today that the federal cost-sharing program for most soil and water conservation practices should be continued.

Commenting on the Administration cut-off of funds for the Rural Environmental Assistance (REAP) and Water Banks programs, and disaster loans to farmers, the state farm leader said that agriculture should not be expected to bear an unequal portion of federal spending cuts.

Under the REAP program, annual payments have been offered landowners covering part of the cost of installing approved conservation and pollution control practices.

"This program, which is cost-sharing and not an income supplement, benefits all people," Woodson said. "It is an investment in the future of this country and not a subsidy solely for the benefit of land owners."

"The soil and water conservation practices not only contribute to pollution control, but also help provide Americans with a bountiful food supply at reasonable prices."

Woodson said farmers and ranchers do support measures to reduce inflationary pressures because they are hurt more than most groups by higher production costs since they cannot pass along cost increases. If the Administration is determined to cut federal spending, it should be across the board in all departments of government, the state farm leader said.

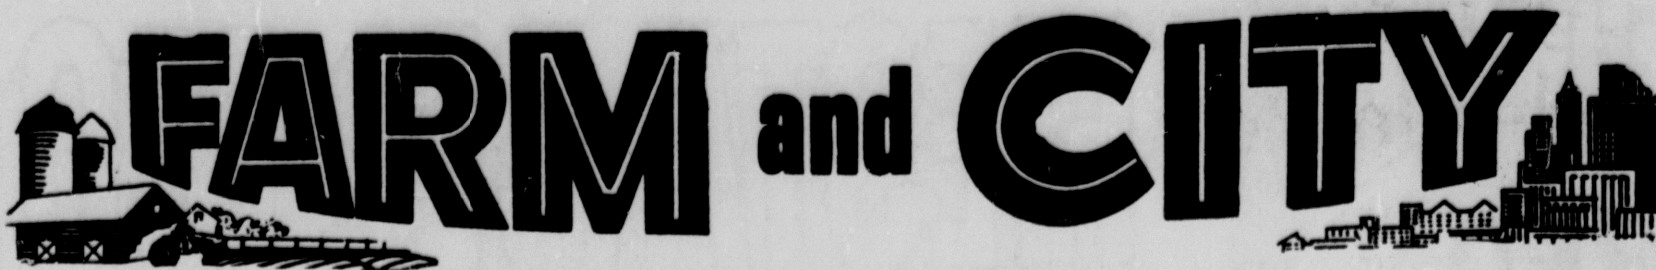

Hobby To Speak

Bill Hobby of Houston, the state's lieutenant governor-elect, will be final speaker for the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station Annual Conference here Jan. 10-12.

He will be heard during a Jan. 12 luncheon in the Texas A&M University Memorial Student Center. His topic has not been announced.

State Senator Bill Moore of Bryan will introduce Hobby.

Hobby is president and executive editor of the Houston Post Company. He is the son of the late William P. Hobby, who served as Governor of Texas for the years 1917-21.

Farm Takes On New Look

The directors of the Taylor Soil and Water Conservation District who recently named G. R. Waddell of Houston to receive the absentee conservation farmer award for 1972, very likely did not see the tract of land located in the Griffin Chapel area before he began to improve it several years ago.

But a neighbor, Isiah Woodard, living across the road, was familiar with it, and after the conservation measures began to show results, is said to have told him: "I sure looks different. Used to be all you could see on that hill was weeds, sand and grass burs."

Maybe Woodard mentioned the worst feature of the 141 acre tract when recalling its former condition. A good deal of the land, especially the bottomland, was in native bermuda and made a fair pasture. And there was considerable timber on the other hills which helped to prevent erosion.

Waddell, who lives in Houston and was engaged in running a large scale company there, could only devote occasional weekends to developing a conservation program on the 141 acre tract, which later had an adjoining 25 acres added to it. He began in 1965 by having some timber and brush cleared and much of the land sprigged in coastal bermudagrass.

Today the original 141 acre tract of land is cross-fenced and there are three pastures of coastal bermudagrass, totaling about 116 acres. This permits rotation of grazing and prevents overgrazing of the grass in any of the pastures.

In addition there is a 24 acre field of coastal bermudagrass for hay. This is overseeded with ryegrass or small grain for winter grazing.

Weeds and brush have been controlled and practically eliminated through spraying and repeated mowing to prevent new growth. Some timber also was cut and the cleared land used to enlarge the pasture area.

And the use of fertilizer has created an excellent growth of coastal bermuda in all of the pastures.

Each of the three pastures has its own stock pond. Two of these were built at the property was cross-fenced; the other is an old pond or water hole in use for years, which was enlarged.

Improvements on the ranch include two metal barns for hay storage and grain and feed, and for farm equipment. Adjoining them there is a small corral. Also there is a mobile home for the use of the family and friends during weekend visits. The ranch is on a line of the Milano Water System, which serves the mobile home, and also a trough or two constructed for cattle, and as insurance in case of drought.

The pastures are stocked with fifty or more head of many of the popular breeds.

When the excess timber was cut, care was taken to leave as many trees as possible for shade, beauty and for wildlife shelter. Another conservation measure, taken a year or two ago, was stocking all three ponds with fishbass, bream and catfish. And one pond has an automatic feeder installed for catfish.

All in all, these measures on the 165 acres of land have added up to an outstanding job of soil conservation, the directors of the Taylor S&W C District believe, and caused them to select G. R. Waddell to receive the absentee conservation farmer award of the year.

State Rep. Dan Kubiak of Rockdale, member of the Texas House Agriculture Committee, today complained to Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz in a telegram about the recent blitz of the Nixon Administration budget cutting on agriculture.

Kubiak said in his telegram that he is "shocked at the finality of the cuts. Agriculture is the backbone of this nation and Texas is a leader in Agriculture. To cut agriculture program funds in order to camouflage excessive federal spending is like removing the heart to stop excessive bleeding in a patient," Kubiak added.

Kubiak urged Butz to reverse recent unexpected cancellation of the Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP) and the Water Bank Aid Program. "Cancellation of the two programs will cost American farmers approximately $235.5 million in aid as specified by Congress. This along with the cotton and wheat fiasco is simply too much for any farmer to stomach," Kubiak stated.

"The administration is phasing out the emergency farm loans by the Farmers Home Administration. Texans depend heavily on agriculture, and the administration cannot turn its back on Texas farmers. I have not noted any similar actions to stop the huge overruns on defense contracts. Farmers and agricultural workers should not be expected to carry the burden in reduced federal spending," he said.

The Secretary was quoted recently as stating "he would fight like a wounded steer and spend money like a drunken sailor on behalf of farmers in order to bring back rural America." This is the worst underestimating since Pearl Harbor and Texas agriculture simply cannot survive such unnecessary pressure. The budget axe must be applied across the board and not just to the backbone of the nation's agriculture, Kubiak said.

Rep. Kubiak also sent telegrams to all members of the Texas Congressional delegation urging them to replace the REAP and Farmers Home Administration funds. "If we do not help agriculture today, how can we expect our young people to go into agriculture related positions. In a decade we will not have enough money to purchase a decent meal if we do not help now," Kubiak stated.

Hog Numbers Decline... Wheat Seeding Increases... Citrus Blackfly Survey Continues... March 1 Is Deadline...

Fewer hogs and pigs are reported in Texas compared to a year ago, the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service notes.

In Texas, the number of hogs and pigs total 1,234,000. This is a decrease of 10 percent from a year earlier.

Reports based on farmers' intentions indicate that during the period now through May, 124,000 sows will farrow in Texas, four percent above a year earlier. The average value of all hogs in Texas is $35 per head, giving a total inventory of $44,240,000.

Nationwide, hogs and pigs total 61,500,000, two percent less than a year ago. Hogs and pigs kept for breeding are estimated at 9,000,000, an increase of six percent.

WINTER wheat seeding for harvest is estimated at 4,400,000 acres which is a nine percent increase over a year ago and is a fourth larger than 1971.

A crop of 70,400,000 bushels is now expected in Texas. This compared with 44,000,000 bushels produced in 1972.

Wheat seeding for all practical purposes is completed with bad weather causing some delays.

Nationwide, the 1973 prospective winter wheat crop is a record 1,278,000,000 bushels. This would be eight percent more than the 1972 crop and 12 percent more than in 1971.

Generally, condition of the crop is mostly good to excellent. Estimated yield is 29.9 bushels per acre, just slightly below the 1971 record yield per acre.

Indications are now that 88 percent of the seeded acreage will be harvested for grain. If realized, this would be the highest percentage since 1966 when 90.3 percent was harvested.

SURVEYS of the citrus blackfly continue in the Rio Grande Valley. A new infestation has been found in the San Benito and Harlingen areas. The blackfly can cause great economic damage in commercial citrus. Even infestations of short duration may reduce crop yields by as much as 50 percent.

Personnel of the Texas Department of Agriculture are cooperating with U.S. Department of Agriculture specialists in combating the fly. The survey will provide a specific picture of the extent of the problem.

Federal-state crews will survey the Valley once each month for six months, examining more than 100,000 points. Entomologists said the survey is sensitive enough to detect infestations as low as one infested tree in 33,000.

After the survey is complete, federal and state officials will decide on appropriate courses of action.

MARCH 1 is deadline for submitting your ideas on proposed changes in the Packers and Stockyards Act as it relates to bonding regulations.

Proposed changes would include recovery under bonds, bond equivalents, termination of bond, and separate coverage for selling and buying activities.

Anyone wishing to submit comments should write the Hearing Clerk, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250. Copies of the amendments may be obtained by writing Information Officer, Packers and Stockyards Administration, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Rural Bankers To Meet For Farm, Ranch School

COLLEGE STATION

The future economic picture will be outlined by a Federal Reserve Bank official during the 21st annual Farm and Ranch Credit School for Commercial Bankers Feb. 12-14 at Texas A&M University.

The speaker is William Kelly, research director for the Dallas Federal Reserve Bank.

Another glance into the future will be given by Dr. Edward Uvacek, Texas Agricultural Extension Service livestock marketing specialist. His topic is livestock prices and outlook.

Tom Prater, Extension economist-management at A&M and the school's program chairman, said "New Dimensions in Agricultural Finance" is the conference theme. More than 200 bankers are expected to attend.

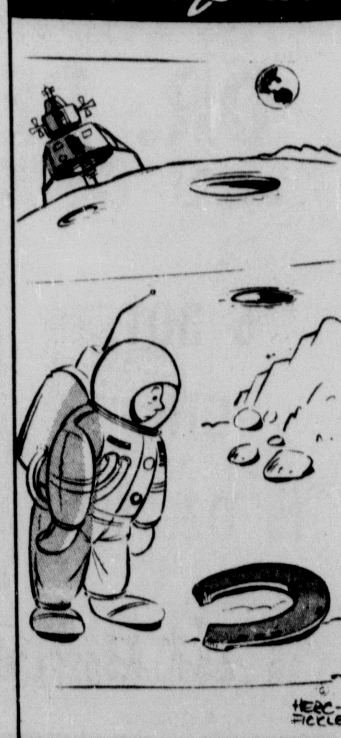

He said the school is "planned by bankers for bankers" by members of the Texas Bankers Association Agricultural and Rural Affairs Section.

In addition to the TBA, sponsors are the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. A&M's Department of Agricultural Economics & Rural Sociology conducts the program.

Prater said the school should be of particular interest to bankers who deal in agricultural loans.

PARIS 21st century travel is already a reality.

Noiseless express trains streak beneath the streets of Paris, piped music plays softly on the platforms, silent rubber-floored corridors deaden all sound in the stations—for the French capital, this vision of the

Known as the "Metro-Express," and administered by the same authority which runs the rest of the city's underground train system, the super-modern trains whisk passengers into and out of the city center at lightning speeds—thanks to specially built subterranean tracks and full automation.

Whereas Paris' old metro network, which has operated in rabbit-warren fashion for the past 72 years, concentrates on shutting city-dwellers within the city limits, the express system is designed to ferry Parisians in from the outlying suburbs with a minimum of stations along the way.

But for newcomers to the joys of travel 21st-century style, the new system has brought a whole new set of problems.

Gone are the simple books of standard-price tickets, each punched by a station attendant as the traveler walks on to the platform.

Instead, the commuter is faced with a formidable ticket-vending machine, programmed to issue up to 250 different types of ticket, on which he has to select at least three buttons to press before being given a ticket.

Nevertheless, the machines have been designed to help the bewildered traveler as much as possible. They will happily accept any combination of six different coin denominations, or even a 10-franc note, worth about two dollars. They inform the traveler how much his ticket will cost and each time he inserts a coin, they subtract the value to indicate how much is left owing.

But once this hurdle is cleared, the relieved traveler immediately finds himself at a barrier instructing him to "Insert your ticket here."

When he has done so, and providing the machine is satisfied that the tickets' magnetic strip bears the correct information, the traveler is told, by means of a lighted sign, "Pick up your ticket." Then, and only then, comes the final instruction: "Pass."

The whole process is repeated when he reached his final destination. On one recent occasion a frantic English businessman was observed trapped in the maw of an automatic barrier which apparently did not like the information registered on his ticket. It was only with the help of a Parisian passer-by, and one of the scarce station attendants, that he was extricated.

Each station on the Metro-express system is individually designed by a different architect. Decor is bright and futuristic, with plentiful use made of stainless steel and brightly-colored plastic materials.

At the station beneath the city's majestic Arc De Triomphe, platform benches are sculpted from marble. At Nation, on the eastern fringe of Paris, passengers wait in bright-red individual plastic booths.

At present, the metro-express network extends 120 miles into Paris suburbs. In 1977, its east and west branches will be linked by a cross-city line which will enable travelers to speed across Paris in only eight minutes. Today, the same journey on regular metro lines takes more than 20 minutes.

WANDERING THROUGH WINTER by Edwin May Teale - the final in a series of 4 books surveying the American seasons. Teale, a naturalist, begins at the Silver Strand below San Diego and follows a leisurely, winding 20,000 mile trail to end in the extreme northeastern corner of the country above Caribou in Maine.

3-D by Patrick Dennis - A simpleminded serpent wreaks havoc with two modern-day Adams and their Eves in this light-as-a-feather novel about a tropical Garden of Eden where all play and no work makes a dull boy a nice change.

NOT SOLDIERS ALL by Robert T. Crowley - An exciting and suspense filled novel about an American army surgeon in the Italian campaign of World War II who risks his life to save a wounded fellow officer caught behind enemy lines and himself from a nagging guilt his conscience won't ignore.

by Julien C. Hyer - more than a history of Lionism in Texas, rather it is a living vibrant collection of stories, anecdotes, and memories of the service organization and the men who gave it meaning.

OUR VANISHING WILDERNESS by Mary Louise and Shelly Grossman and John N. Hamlet - The authors, in a remarkable integration of photography, scholarship and observation, explore some of the basic ecological questions of our time.

DISCOVERING MAN'S PAST IN THE AMERICAS - A chronicle of human development in the Western Hemisphere from Ice Age wanderers to builders of mighty empires that astounded 16th century Spanish conquistadors. The setting for this absorbing story reaches from Alaska to the tip of South America. Published by National Geographic Society.

THE CURSE OF JEZEBEL by Frank G. Slaughter - One of the most dramatic episodes of the Old Testament is that of Jezebel and her husband, Ahab, King of Israel. Slaughter, in retelling this violent story has captured all the vivid color of its era, as well as the character of the woman whose name has since become a synonym for lust and treachery.

Baylor Theater Opens Season

WACO
Baylor Theater goes can expect much more entertainment during the theater's 1973 spring season.

"I Never Sang for My Father" and "Hamlet" along with two weeks of repertory performances will be featured during the season beginning Feb. 2 and continuing through April 14.

Bill G. Cook, director of Baylor Theater and professor of drama, cited three reasons for the excellence of the fall season and the anticipated excellence of the upcoming spring season.

"Even more than usual, we have very fine actors who are dedicated to making each and every show the best," Cook said. "We are losing a few of our cast members of the fall shows due to graduation and professional job offers, but we have a brand new crop of underclassmen to take their places."

Cook also cited the work of Mike Calitri, "who has added a lot to our faculty. His technical knowledge has made our sets equal to the best," Cook said. Calitri, who joined the Baylor faculty this fall, is assistant professor of drama and technical director for the theater.

The theater's next production is "I Never Sang for My Father" by Robert Anderson. The play is the thesis production of Chuck Seaton, San Diego, Calif., graduate student. Opening night is Feb. 3 and 5 through 10.

Tickets for the play will go on sale to the public Jan. 29 at the Baylor Theater box office on South Fifth Street. The $2 tickets also are available by writing Baylor Theater Box Office, Baylor University, Waco, Texas 76703. Reservations may be made by calling (17) 755-1861.

Group discounts for 15 or more are available for Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday performances.

William Shakespeare's "Hamlet" will be the second production of the spring season. Performances will be March 22 through 24 and 26 through 31.

With the completion of these two shows, Baylor Theater will go into its seventh repertory season. Repertory plays will be "Our Town," "The Diary of a Scoundrel" and "Hamlet."

Performances of Thornton Wilder's classic, "Our Town," directed by Cook, will be April 3, 6, 11 and 14.

"The renovation of Theater I, Cook said, 'has added more than 100 new chairs for the audience and has given our people more leeway on set design.'"

Mrs. Baird taught her sons to take personal responsibility for the quality of their product.

And today Mrs. Baird's Bread is still judged by members of the Baird family... because they still care about personal supervision.

MUCHO SPORTS:

Dumbest remark of 1972 NFL Football? Owner Clint Murchison's claiming a Dallas Cowboy dynasty in the Super Bowl dressing room, seconds after the Pokes had done in Miami. That was not Big D's only problem trying to defend The Super but even junior high players know better than to telegraph intentions, ala Cassius Clay... Talking about Clay: Isn't it just too obvious by now that many young Black athletes copy his boorish, big-mouth bragging. Like, say Oklahoma All-America Halfback Greg Pruitt, Heisman Trophy Winner Johnny Rodgers and South Louisiana Basket Bomber Dwight Lamar. Like Joe Namath has provided many youth athletes a false swinger impression, so has Big Mouth Clay. The talking athlete only makes his task more difficult by inciting the opposition. Black, or white.

Baylor must play its home SWC basketball schedule in tiny (3000) seats Renna Marrs McLean gym, since October tornado damage knocked out the 10,000 seat Heart O' Texas Coliseum... Waco Sports Genius Dave Campbell indicates the smaller confines will give Baylor's noisy crowd a decided edge in a war-of-nerves with the visiting SWC foe. Campbell quotes Aggie Coach Shelby Metcalf as saying the very thought of it is enough to make rival coaches cringe.

ARA ARE-UH QUIET:

Rumors persist that San Antonio Lee's Tommy Kramer, the two-time All-State quarterback, is headed for the University of Texas, in spite of Darrell Royal's alleged antipathy to the forward pass. Seems Kramer has recoiled at the suggestion that he is a Pass-only quarterback, and therefore not a complete football player.

Baylor lost a Super to the Aggies last week when Tim Gray, Navarro JC cornerback, pulled a last-minute switcheroo after having committed to Grant Teaff... Dave Campbell: "Silence is Golden Department: The only thing more Golden than the Notre Dame dome right now is Ara Parseghian's silence following his team's debacle in the Orange Bowl. Ara tartly suggested Alabama had chickened out by going to the Cotton Bowl to play a team like Texas rather than take on Nebraska or his own Fighting Irish."

"Some chicken Texas turned out to be. Actually, Notre Dame turned out to be the white meat in that four-some, losing to Nebraska, 40-6."

QUICKIES:

It is good to see Joe Paterno opt to stay in the college ranks. Joe is a talker but a heckuva coach and he's good for the college youngsters... Odd, how things happen. Folks who saw Oklahoma defeat UT, 27-0, came away with a strong feeling the Sooners were the superior team. But, not 24-points superior. Then comes the Bowl Bash, UT finishes strong to beat Alabama 17-13 and where do Royal's young men finish nationally? Third, snugly behing Oklahoma's Second place wind-up... TCU, they say, is working the California Junior College heavily in an attempt to quickly hypo its football program.

UT GRADUATE

Charles Maddox Jr. of Cameron was among more than 320 students who were candidates for the Bachelor of Business Administration degree from the University of Texas at the end of the fall semester.

MH-B Wins 10 Singles Matches

When Mary Hardin-Baylor College students return to campus January 16, they will find talk of tennis ranks with Tennyson after a near-poetic performance by the MH-B men's singles team in the Cotton Bowl Tennis Championships at Dallas New Year's weekend.

The Belton college won 10 singles matches, more than any of the dozen college entrants.

Led by the performance of Reijo Tuomola, who bowed in the finals to top seeded Lee Merry of the University of Houston, 6-4, 7-6. MH-B won 10 singles matches compared with the University of Houston, 6; East Texas State, 6; and Pan American College, 6; Texas A&M, 4; Samford University, 4; North Texas State, 3; Texas Tech, 2; Rice University, 2; San Diego University, 2; and Louisiana State University, 1.

Tuomola is from Helsinki and is a member of Finland's Davis Cup Team. He is a freshman business major at MH-B. In route to the finals, Tuomola beat Brian Holland, U. S. Air Force champion from Greenland; Dwight Edwards of Pan American College; fourth-seeded tennis professional Kimm Kotelspn; former Ireland junior champion Wilson Campbell; and MH-B team member Roberto Trogola, a freshman art major from Johannesburg, South Africa.

Before bowing to Tuomola, Trogola defeated national intercollegiate singles titlist Harry Fritz; Fort Worth's Mike Liddle; and former North Texas State star Dixie Mabe.

fan, might be suitable for the college and professional player but is dangerous to the high schooler, according to a University of Texas researcher.

Prof. Karl Klein of UT Austin's Physical Instruction Department said the younger player and his knee, in terms of strength and ligament are "just not ready for the added traction and speed that can be produced on such surfaces."

Professor Klein made the observation while discussing a recent study of facts related to knee injury with specific reference to the high school athlete. In his study, the UT professor compared the development of the high school athlete's knee with that of the average college player.

He found that the strength relationship between the quadriceps (group of muscles in front of the leg responsible for knee joint support) and the hamstrings (on the back of the leg) is 2:1 in the high school athlete and 10:6 in the average college varsity player.

"The difference may not appear significant but is when the importance of the hamstrings in knee protection is being considered," Professor Klein said.

Other comparisons showed that the high school player had:

--Significantly looser collateral ligaments, both medial and lateral, resulting in more lateral movement of approximately two degrees (34 per cent) at the knee joint.

--More anterior cruciate ligament looseness.

--Many more cases of hyper-extension of the knee joint.

--A state of lesser total physical readiness in muscular strength, endurance and cardio-respiratory fitness than the college ball player at the beginning of the season's practice.

Recognizing that there are major anatomical and structural differences in the knee between the high school and college football player, Professor Klein made the following suggestions to reduce the potential of knee injury to the high schooler:

--Make more time available for general and specific conditioning work before starting contact drills.

--Spend more practice time in the conditioning of the hamstring muscles so as to increase the protective support of the knee joint.

--Spend more practice time teaching how to run, cut and turn in a manner that will protect those loose collateral ligaments.

--Eliminate all heel cleats and replace with the lock-on heel or bar.

--Be more selective in choosing players for contact sports and insist that the knee joints be thoroughly checked for bilateralism in strength and ligament support.

--Be aware of the problems created with the use of artificial turfs.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on Federal tax matters is provided by the Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q - Each Christmas my employer gives me a turkey. Do I have to include the value of this gift in my income?

A - No. If, to promote goodwill, your employer makes a general distribution of turkeys, hams, or other items of merchandise of nominal value at Christmas or another holiday, the value of those gifts is not income.

However, if your employer distributes cash, gift certificates, or similar items of readily convertible cash value, the value of such gifts is additional salary or wages.

Q - I moved last May. How can I be sure the Internal Revenue Service will send my tax forms to my new address?

A - Just leave your new address with the post office in your old neighborhood. The post office will forward the forms to you. When you get your 1972 income tax return, be sure to correct your address on the label in your tax return packet.

If you do not receive your tax forms package in the mail, you can obtain blank forms at any IRS office, most banks and post offices.

Q - My employer is transferring me to another state. What are the rules for deducting moving expenses?

A - In general, your moving expenses are deductible if you satisfy certain distance and time requirements. The distance between your new place of work and your old residence must be at least 50 miles farther than the distance from your old residence to your old place of work. Secondly, during the 12-month period immediately after your arrival in the general area of your new place of work, you must have worked full-time for at least 39 weeks. If you are self-employed, a different time requirement applies.

For more details, contact your Internal Revenue office and ask for a free copy of IRS Publication 521, "Tax Information on Moving Expenses."

Q - Both my wife and I are having dental work done and I'm going to have a big medical expense deduction this year. Is there any way to get some kind of benefit for this now to help me pay some of the bills?

A - Yes. You may be able to have your employer reduce your income tax withholding based on the larger itemized deductions you expect. Instructions for making this change are given on Form W-4. Ask your employer or your local IRS office for a copy.

GRANDFATHER'S EYES

That's what Grandma always says — that I have Grandfather's eyes. It's certainly a mixed-up world, isn't it? People having other people's eyes.

But they never say Grandfather has my eyes. I asked Dad about it. Although he didn't answer directly, he did say that we all have to have faith and character worth passing on to our children. That's why we go to church. Later it occurred to me: Someday, somebody will have my eyes . . . my faith.

Overtime Pay Required By Department Of Labor

WASHINGTON — In Texas last year, a Spanish-speaking American was found working for an import-export firm 63 hours a week, but earning only $45 a week.

Noting the firm's violations of Federal minimum wage and overtime laws, the U. S. Department of Labor's Wage and Hour Division negotiated a $5,000 back wage payment for the man -- only days before a finance company close his mortgage and at a time when he owed $1,500 to seven other creditors.

In Chicago, an 80-year-old black night watchman was working 102 hours a week for $75. At the required minimum wage of $1.60 an hour and time and a half for overtime beyond 40 hours, he should have been making $178 a week.

The Wage and Hour Division investigated the case and recovered $4100 in back wages -- mostly for overtime.

The Wage and Hour Division was created under the provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 to correct such abuses. The law clearly stipulates, except where a specific exemption applies, an overtime rate of at least time and one-half an employee's regular rate of pay must be paid to anyone working more than 40 hours a week.

The law was the culmination of years of effort to shorten hours for overworked employees, to create new jobs for the unemployed and to eliminate unfair competition among employers who cut wages to lower costs.

The Federal Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938, requires payment of time and a half the regular rate of pay after 40 hours a week in dozens of industries and hundreds of occupations, and applies in states with and without their own laws governing overtime.

Certain exceptions are allowed, however, in the federal law. Employees of hotels, motels and restaurants, for example, are exempted from application of the overtime law. Executives, administrators, professionals and outside sales workers are exempt from both minimum wage and overtime provisions of the law.

Noted Surgeon Links Obesity And Hearing Loss

NEW YORK — A leading surgeon has established that there is a direct link between obesity and hearing loss. In an exclusive interview in the current issue of Weight Watchers magazine, world renowned otologist Dr. Samuel Rosen voiced his belief that "there is a definite relationship between diet -- particularly a high-saturated fat diet -- and hearing loss."

Dr. Rosen, a specialist in the study of the ear, has ministered to prominent statesmen during his long career and is the developer of the stapes operation, which has cured countless cases of failing hearing.

Dr. Rosen first noted the link between diet and hearing about 12 years ago, according to the Weight Watchers article, when he visited the Maban tribe, noted for its remarkable hearing, in southeast Sudan.

In addition to the extraordinary hearing of the group, Dr. Rosen found no evidence of coronary disease or corollary problems at any age, and no obesity. The Maban diet, usually fish, nuts and wild dates, excluded saturated fats and fried foods, while making limited use of butter, eggs and milk. The result was a healthier individual.

A few years later, in Finland, Dr. Rosen had the opportunity to test his theories. Over a five-year period, he took away saturated fat foods from the inmates of a 1000-bed hospital near Helsinki, while using a similar 640-bed hospital as a control.

The result was less tendency to coronary thrombosis and other related diseases for those on the low fat program and a marked improvement in hearing. After the five-year period, the diets were reversed and everything else reversed between the groups, including their hearing capabilities.

"I hope by telling you about our studies on eating habits as related to hearing that your readers will have a new incentive to start eating correctly," concludes the famed otologist in the Weight Watchers article.

Employers are required to keep records of each employee's hours and the records can be inspected by compliance officers of the Wage and Hour Division. The overtime rate of each employee is based on his regular hourly rate of pay. For example, if a person is making $2.00 an hour straight time, his time and a half rate would be $3 times the number of hours worked in excess of 40 in a workweek.

Specific inquiries about the law can be directed to the local Wage-Hour office listed under U. S. Department of Labor in the telephone directory. Complaints are considered confidential, and appropriate action is taken on each one.

Ancient 'Pit House' Village Found In Hueco Tanks Park

EL PASO — Texas' westernmost state park has been the scene of recent archeological work by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Workers under the guidance of George Kegley, Parks and Wildlife Department staff archeologist, have uncovered the site of an ancient "pit house" village in Hueco Tanks State Park.

The village dates back to between 1200 and 1400 A.D. and was inhabited by a pueblo group of Indians.

The Indians of Hueco Tanks dug the foundations of their houses 18 to 20 inches into the soil and covered the pit bottom and probably the sides with adobe. The roof was also apparently constructed with adobe.

Kegley and his crew of workers uncovered three pit houses.

"With the exception of slight rises in the ground," said Kegley, "we had no indication that the buried houses sites existed."

"We were very lucky, we dug until they found a wall and then followed the wall to its source."

It took about two weeks to completely excavate each house site. The reagent adobe was surprisingly damp underground and the last of it was tendiously excavated with small trowels.

Excavation was made more difficult by the fact that the West Texas area had 19 inches of rain since August, three times the normal yearly amount.

In addition to the houses, Kegley found three prehistoric burials, refuse heaps and numerous potsherds and projectile points.

One of the burial sites was in the interior of a house, a common practice in this area in prehistoric times.

Why the houses were abandoned is a mystery to the archeologists. There is no sign of catastrophe. The Indians simply left.

From what can be pieced together of their life style just before the coming of the Spanish. Explorers in the 1500s reported that Indians in the Hueco Tanks area were semi-nomadic and had evidently abandoned their sedentary living some time before.

"There is evidence," said Kegley, "that man may have lived at Hueco Tanks as early as 10,000 years ago."

Such speculation is based on finds of Folsom points, beautifully worked projectile points associated with early big-game hunters.

Excavation was also done on the remains of a Butterfield Overland Stage waystation that is within the park.

The station was active in 1858 and 1859.

Investigations of the stage site have raised some questions as to it really being part of the Butterfield system. Kegley visited other stops along the line and found them to differ from the remains of the Hueco Tanks station.

Parks and Wildlife Department personnel were greatly assisted by the El Paso Centennial Museum and amateur archeologists from the El Paso Archeological Society.

New Hospital Construction Due Start

With a construction start this spring, King's Daughters Hospital will occupy its new facility in southwest Temple by late 1974 or early 1975, according to hospital administrator R. L. Epperson.

Epperson said that the architects for the new five-story, 85,000-square-foot hospital will have plans ready to go out for bids by mid-March next year.

Bids on the estimated $4,250,000 project (the figure includes equipment and fees) will be opened April 15 and the contract awarded shortly thereafter. This means construction should start by May 1, 1973.

Hong Kong's Economy Booms

By Roland Dallas

HONG KONG — This booming British colony on the edge of China is ending another record-breaking year with no sign that its economy is slowing down.

But it still faces serious social problems including festering slums, a shortage of schools and a spiralling crime rate.

Prices on Hong Kongs' four stock exchanges -- among the busiest in the year to a one-day record turnover of $114 million.

Speculators, from millionaires to waiters and house servants, are gambling on the exchanges daily despite dire warnings that the market is over-valued and may crash.

One of the recent buying sprees was sparked by a huge takeover by a land investment company which gained control of a large dairy and supermarket chain with a share offer totalling over $288 million.

Tourism, one of Hong Kongs' biggest and most lucrative industries, hit a record in November when the colony welcomed its millionth visitor in one year for the first time.

The tourist, air hostess Carol Beach of Miami, was presented with a diamond ring and a free suite at one of Hong Kongs' packed hotels.

Two new motels, one with more than 1,000 rooms and the other with 95 rooms, have opened and another huge motel is under construction.

Hong Kongs' economy expanded rapidly during the year with a growth rate of about 10 per cent. Exports up to the end of October rose by 10.6 per cent, compared to the same period last year.

Hong Kongs' exports showed moderate increases to the United States and Britain, its main markets, but shot up by 40 per cent to West Germany.

However experienced economists sounded a note of caution, pointing out that half of Hong Kongs' exports are textiles and other countries are becoming increasingly protective towards their textile industries.

About a quarter of the colony's imports came from Japan, mostly duty-free, but only 2.9 per cent of the colony's exports went to Japan, which is protected by tariff walls.

Relations with China improved dramatically after diplomatic ties between London and Peking were raised to ambassador level and Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home visited the Chinese capital.

Hong Kong remains China's biggest export market by far, and an agreement has been reached to lay a new cable to the south China city of Canton to improve telecommunications.

But the colony still faces serious social problems and Governor Sir Murray MacLehose announced plans to start to solve them. He plans to build homes for more than 280,000 squatters in 10 years and find school places for about 184,000 students.

Details of the two massive plans have not yet been announced.

Sir Murray has also announced plans to expand the police force to fight crime on decaying low-cost housing estates by organized gangsters.

With about 80,000 addicts, Hong Kong has one of the world's worst drug problems and illegal heroin sales have been blamed for encouraging corruption in the police.

44 Tours Offered By State Agency

AUSTIN

Texas will offer a total of 44 package tours, all bearing inclusive tour (IT) numbers and all listed in the Consolidated Air Tour Manual, Frank Hildebrand, executive director of the Texas Tourist Development Agency, has announced.

Developed and operated by Gray Lone Sightseeing of Texas, the 44 packages involve some 68 Texas communities and attractions. The 1973 packages are double the number offered in 1972, Hildebrand said.

New additions include Laredo, Lion Country Safari at Grand Prairie, the Ranch Headquarters Museum at Lubbock, Alamo Village at Brackettville, Fort Davis, Goliad, and San Marcos. Also included for the first time are South Padre Island, Fredericksburg, Nacogdoches, Tyler, Longview, Kilgore, Del Rio, Abilene, and Port Aransas.

Highlight of the 1973 Tour Texas package program will be "Texas Fishing and Hunting Safaris" which are also being offered for the first time. These include complete package arrangements for deep sea fishing out of Port Aransas, fresh water fishing at Lake Sam Rayburn, white tail deer and quail hunting on a ranch north of Del Rio, and mourning dove hunting at Hamilton.

Every geographic area and major point of interest in Texas are covered in the new packages, according to TTDA and Gray Line officials. A total of 114 hotel motel properties have been included.

Safeway
Sales Top
$6 Billion

W. S. Mitchell, President, Safeway Stores, Incorporated, announced that today Safeway's unaudited consolidated sales for the fiscal year ending December 30 passed the $6 billion mark. Safeway's sales for the 1971 year were $5,358,837,000.

Projecting favorable growth in the coming year, Mitchell said, Safeway has emphasized distribution without waste since incorporation in 1926, and this will continue to be a key objective. Other priorities in 1973 include aggressive support for President Nixon's anti-inflation programs and to be continually alert for additional opportunities to better serve customers.

Safeway operates 2,337 stores in the United States, Canada, United Kingdom, Australia and West Germany, including 146 new stores opened and 90 closed in 1972, with a net gain of 2,130,000 square feet. Plans for 1973 call for the addition of 150 new stores.

The Safeway Dallas Division operates 203 retail locations in Texas and is the fourth largest Division in the Company. The building and expansion program will continue during 1973 and 34 new stores scheduled to be built. Ten of these stores are in the newly-entered market of Houston. Two and a quarter ($2 1/4) million dollars are expected to be spent remodeling and updating existing stores.
